

Rich Dismissed.

Walter Rich, arrested Monday by Patrolman Fred Link for alleged complicity in the wrecking of a Louisville and Nashville train on the night of Friday, November 6, and upon a warrant sworn out by A. L. Summers, special agent for the railroad, was dismissed Wednesday morning because of lack of evidence against him.

Rich was arrested Wednesday afternoon when he arrived in Paris from Livingston, where he resides with his parents. He was taken before Judge Dundon and his trial set for Wednesday morning. On motion of County Attorney George Batterton the warrant against Rich was dismissed.

Rich formerly worked for the Louisville and Nashville and was a witness for James Delph, a white boy who was sent to the reform school from Mt. Vernon on a charge of having attempted to wreck a train on the south end about two years ago. It was said that he and Rich had been together a great deal of the time since.

A warrant against Delph was sworn out before Squire L. J. Fretwell, supported by the affidavit of Mr. Summers, and sent to Cumminsville, O., where he is said to be located.

Both Rich and Delph were in Paris on the day the wrecking of the north-bound train No. 32 near Bedford Station occurred and in which Engineer James Lemons was killed and several trainmen and passengers injured.

They were seen in the vicinity of the wreck late that evening. According to the statement of Rich they spent the night at the Louisville and Nashville pump station in this city, and left for Ohio. Rich returned to Livingston about a week ago, Delph remaining in Cumminsville, O.

Famous Stallion Sold.

John T. Collins & Son, of North Middletown, have sold to J. B. Bowles and L. P. Dickerson, of Bardonia, Ky., for a private consideration the sensational young stallion, Beechwood Pride, formerly Harmon 4716. Being sired by the famous stallion, Roosevelt, and out of a mare by Chester Dare, the young stallion is royally bred. Beechwood Pride won both the harness and saddle class at the Louisville State Fair, in 1911, but by reason of a temporary injury, from which he has fully recovered, he was kept from the show ring the past season.

Mr. Collins entered him in the $6,000 saddle stake at the Panama Exposition and if no mishaps occur his new owners expect to try for the rich stake.

Phillip N. Henry Falls to Death.

Mr. Phil Nippert Henry, aged 17 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Henry, of Louisville, died Monday night from the effects of injuries sustained from a fall from a narrow ledge in front of the Headley Building at Georgetown College, in Washington, D. C., where he was a student.

A playful prank is believed to have cost the youth his life. The ledge from which he fell is only a foot wide, running along the fourth floor, and the students at the institution frequently walked along the wall to surprise their friends who were occupying the front rooms of the building.

The faculty of the college had recently issued orders forbidding the practice. The position of the body when found indicated that he had walked out on the ledge a distance of several feet when he fell to the ground fifty feet below. His neck, both legs and right wrist were broken.

He was rushed to a hospital immediately after the accident by a member of the faculty but died before an operation could be performed.

The young man was born in Paris in 1895 and since moving away with his parents has often visited here. During the summer of 1910 and 1911 he spent several months with his grandfather, Mr. Phillip Nippert, who was apprised of his tragic death Monday night by telegram. He was unusually bright and was quite a favorite with the young men of his age in Paris.

He was a graduate of the public school of Louisville, being educated in the Manual training school. He entered Georgetown College last September as a member of the Freshman class.

Mr. Percy Henry, father of the unfortunate boy, left Louisville immediately upon the receipt of the news of his son's death and returned with the remains Wednesday night. The funeral will be held in Louisville today. Miss Julia O'Brien, a life long friend of Mrs. Henry, left Tuesday for Louisville and Mr. Phillip Nippert, Sr., father of Mrs. Henry, left Wednesday morning for that city to remain until after the funeral.

Nearing Completion.

A large force of bricklayers are employed in the construction of the addition to the building on Main street formerly occupied by King Redmon, which has been leased by the firm of Yerkes & Prichard. The building is being rushed to completion before the arrival of cold weather.

The two story brick building of Martin Doyle, which has been under construction for the past two months, is now under cover and plasterers are at work. It is expected the building will be completed and ready for occupancy within the next thirty days.

Old Offender Given Limit.

Jim Bayless, colored, frequently in police court, was tried yesterday before Judge January yesterday on a breach of the peace charge and given the limit fine of $100 and costs and 50 days in jail. Bayless is alleged to have beaten a negro woman by the name of Sallie Jackson.

Fallen Tree Delays Train.

The crew and passengers of a Louisville and Nashville train operating between Paris and Lexington, and known as the "dinky" train, had an unusual and exciting experience late Monday afternoon near Warrentown, Fayette county, which delayed the train for two hours and came near resulting seriously for the crew.

The train was running along at a rate of about 25 miles an hour when a tall tree beside the track which had in some way caught fire, fell across the track, striking the moving engine and endangering two lives. The engineer caught sight of the burning tree and endeavored to pass before the towering mass of flame fell, but just as the engine got opposite, the burning tree came down with a crash, striking the locomotive and scattering fire about the heads of the engine crew.

The engine was so badly damaged that a delay of about two hours was occasioned in chopping the burning tree top to pieces to get it out of the way of the train so that the flames would not set fire to the coaches, and in making repairs on the engine.

Scott and Jerry Taylor against the Greenbaum Distillery Company, of Midway, was entered Tuesday at the special term of the Franklin Circuit Court. All the defendants, excepting Jerry Taylor, are suing for $10,000 damages, and he is suing for $50,000 in the consolidated cases, in which it is alleged that Elkhorn creek waters are so polluted by distillery slop that the fish are killed and the running water is made unfit for stock to drink. The distillery contends that the waters are polluted by sewage from Lexington. The trial will continue several days.

It is planned to give the performance the first week in December, but the exact date has not been definitely decided upon. FRECKLES COMING

The play charms, as does Freckles himself, with all his tender simplicity, and unaffected naturalisms.

THEATRICAL."FRECKLES."

"Freckles," with its familiar scenes, will be at the Paris Grand Nov. 30. It has proven a theatrical event wherever it has played, and should be an event here.

The trouble, time and expense necessary in staging a dramatization of some popular novel must be understood to be thoroughly appreciated. It is a hard task, and there are few who possess the stamina to bring the work to a successful issue. When it became known that the wonderful popularity of "Freckles" was an absolute truth, and with the sale of the book, gaining entree into thousands of homes, there were a number of New York producing managers who immediately wanted the dramatic rights to Gene Stratton-Porter's story of the Lumberlost. Authors and copyright owners of books, however, with such popularity as this one, are slow to relinquish their award.

The question arose who was to dramatize "Freckles." To be real dramatic worth a book play must stick to the text of the story in both word and deed, and this requires more than a playwright; it requires a knowledge of stage intricacies and craftsmanship. Neil Twomey was given the assignment, and went to work diligently. That he succeeded, even above the hopes of Delamater, is attested by four first class companies playing on tour this season.

The success of "Freckles," it is said, lies in its simplicity. There are no characters in modern fiction nor on the stage endowed with such simple nobility, sweetness and wonderful delineation as given "Freckles" and his sweetheart, "The Swamp Angel," by its author, Mrs. Porter has studied nature, she has lived all her life in the great Lumberlost swamp region of Indiana, studying it and writing about it. She has achieved a position which can be disputed by none; her fiction and her play reaches is in popular demand. It is the newest and most popular of book plays.

Charles Frohman will present Maude Adams in James Matthew Barrie's classic play, "Peter Pan," at the Lexington Opera House Tuesday and Wednesday, November 26 and 27. This bit of news is certain not only to interest but to delight all classes of theatergoers, for Miss Adams is the best loved personality on the American stage. As for "Peter Pan," everyone has heard of the boy who wouldn't grow up and his adventures in the Never-Never Land. Miss Adams when first seen in this whimsical work by the cleverest of modern British writers, scored the greatest success that she had known. Her early tours in it were notable triumphs. Again and again there has been a demand that she revive it, and it is in answer to this demand that the work is now being given. It is said of "Peter Pan" that it is the daintiest and most beautiful fairy tale which has found its way to the worldly, noisy modern stage. It is a whimsical drama of the child heart, which no one but James Barrie could have written and no one but Maude Adams make real. Mr. Frohman has surrounded the actress with a strong and well balanced company and given the play a series of elaborate settings.

The sale of seats will open Saturday, November 23. The prices will range from fifty cents to two dollars. All orders sent to Manager Scott will receive prompt attention if accompanied by an emittance and a self addressed envelope.
